HOW TO CREATE A STAR WARS® EVENT

IN YOUR SCHOOL OR LIBRARY

BEFORE THE EVENT

BOOKS

Order plenty of Star Wars books to have for Story Time and your Jedi Library reading corner. Spotlight, a division of ABDO Publishing, carries faithful adaptations of the famed movie series as well as The Clone Wars, alternate story lines, and many more, all in a reinforced library binding that will withstand the circulation these books will have in your library. See our Star Wars order form for easy ordering!

CHARACTER APPEARANCES

A great way to create excitement at your event is to have character appearances. The 501st Legion is an all-volunteer organization that may be available to make an appearance at your event. Locate your local garrison to determine availability through their Web site, www.501st.com. Unable to have characters at your event? Another great option is to have cardboard stand-ups to take pictures with. Order over $1,000 worth of books through ABDO or two book bins and get a free Darth Vader stand-up. Need more? You can order more at www.advancedgraphics.com

ACTIVITIES FOR CHILDREN AND YOUNG ADULTS

From Jedi training to building 3-D models, there are many Star Wars themed activities that will keep kids of all ages (and adults!) engaged and excited during your event. To help you pick activities, we have compiled lists of them for both children (ages 4-11) and young adults (ages 12-17) to choose from for your event. Please see our Star Wars Activities pages for these lists.

ADVERTISE

Get the word out about your event! Take advantage of free advertising through your school or library Web site or contact your local TV news station or newspaper. We've attached a sample press release you can tailor to your needs! Make sure to give news organizations at least a week's notice. Put up posters in your school or library to promote the event. We've made one for you to print and use - just add the date and time of your event at the bottom.

VOLUNTEERS

Secure volunteers to help during the event. You will want to have at least one volunteer at each activity station. If you are doing an event for younger kids, ask some teens to volunteer. It will be fun for them, too! Make sure to have them come early to help with setup and stay late to help with cleanup.

HANDOUTS

A great idea, especially for younger children, is to provide a handout to all kids as they enter your event. On the front, list the different activities offered so the young Jedis can hit all the activities and check them off with a lightsaber (a pencil taped to the handout). On the back, explain to the caregivers the benefits of each activity and encourage caregiver involvement with the activities. Prepare and print these out for volunteers to distribute at the door.

HOW TO CREATE A STAR WARS® EVENT

DAY OF THE EVENT

SETUP

Set up all the activities. Make sure there is room to get to all stations. Put up signs by each activity to let people know what it is (Jedi Library, Jedi Training, 3-D Character Building, Asteroid Hunt, etc.). We've created signs for you to print and use...or design your own! If you are going to have Story Time, make sure you have space in the center of your room to fit everyone. Set up your projector so the whole group will get to see the story. If you have a larger venue, you may need to have a microphone available so everyone can hear you.

VOLUNTEERS

Have your volunteers help set up the stations and assign them to their activity for the event. After everything has been set up, make sure to show your volunteers what they will be doing at their activity station.

OPENING THE DOORS

When you open the doors to let everyone in, make sure you are ready! If you have handouts, have plenty of volunteers giving them out at the door to make sure everyone gets one. If you are going to have Story Time, you can just have everyone come in and find a seat on the floor to start the event.

STORY TIME

Having Story Time at the start of the event is a great way to encourage family reading and a way to get everyone together to explain the activities available at the event. Have everyone sit on the floor and use the projector to project the story to the wall. If you have characters, giving them a grand entrance at the end of Story Time is awesome. Keep them hidden until the kids call for them and then have them make their entrance.

ACTIVITIES

Make sure you have plenty of activities and printouts available for the event. Check in with your volunteers frequently to make sure things are going smoothly.

CLEANUP

You will be surprised by how quickly the time flies during the event! Once the event is over, you will need to assign duties to the volunteers assisting with cleanup so everyone knows their responsibilities.

PLAN YOUR NEXT EVENT

Make notes of activities that worked for you and others you may want to try at your next event. Pick a date for next year's event. If you have multiple age groups at your school or library, you could schedule an event for a different age group.

AFTER THE EVENT

SEND US YOUR IDEAS & PICTURES

We would love to add your ideas and pictures to our successful Star Wars events program! You can submit these to us by e-mailing them to starwars@abdopublishing.com, mailing them to us at ABDO Publishing, ATTN. Kim Standley; 8000 West 78th Street, Suite 310; Edina, MN 55439 or you can find us online at:

ABDO Publishing @ABDOpublishing blog.abdopublishing.com

CREATE A TEEN GRAPHIC NOVEL OR SCI-FI BOOK CLUB

Keep the excitement going by creating a book club. This is a great way for teens to make new friends, discuss similar interests, and learn how to organize and lead a club and discussion. Help them along, but let them take the lead. Our Star Wars and graphic novel book club bins make starting a club easy!

START A PARENT/CHILD BOOK CLUB

This is a great way to encourage parents to continue to connect with their children through reading. Use one of our Star Wars book bins to tie in to the event. If working with teens, let them take the lead in discussions and book choices.

COMICS CORNER

Create a Comics Corner in your school or library. Fill with comfy beanbags and chairs. Stock it with Star Wars books as well as other popular comics such as Spider-Man, Iron Man, The Avengers, Transformers, Scooby-Doo and more—all available in reinforced library bindings from ABDO. Our book collection bins are a fast and simple way to get your Comics Corner started!

STAR WARS MOVIE VIEWING PARTY & CRITIQUE

Hold a Star Wars movie viewing party at your school or library and then critique the movie using our How to Analyze the Films of George Lucas book. For younger kids, consider watching an episode of the TV show The Clone Wars.

CREATE YOUR OWN SCI-FI COMIC

Having kids create their own comic is a great way to build literacy, fine motor skills, and creative writing and literary element awareness, as well as encourage teamwork. If you have a group of kids interested in creating a comic together, use our Spotlight Teacher Guides to teach them about the different people who work together to create a comic (writers, pencillers, inkers, colorists, etc) and assign duties according to interest. Help them work together to create a comic and print a copy for everyone to have. There are also great free computer comic creator programs if you have individuals interested in creating their own comic. Check sites such as www.marvel.com/games/play/34/create\_your\_own\_comic or the games section of the Galactic Arcade at www.hasbro.com/starwars

HOW TO CREATE A STAR WARS® EVENT

ACTIVITY SHEET

ACTIVITIES FOR CHILDREN (AGES 4-11)

1. STORY TIME

Scan a book and project the images onto the wall so the whole group can see. Have the kids help read along by having special sayings for them. This is a great activity to promote literacy, book sharing with families, and the incredible vocabulary Star Wars books have. Read a story to kick off your event or have the kids write a story to read. (See photo A on left)

2. COSTUME PARTY

Invite the kids to wear costumes to the event. This encourages creativity and creative play. Plus, it's fun to see all the costumes!

3. PHOTO OPS

Have a screen or paper backdrop set up where kids can have their picture taken with characters or cardboard stand-ups. This will build social skills and also give them a keepsake to remember the event! (See photo B on left)

4. JEDI TRAINING OBSTACLE COURSE

Set up a course for Jedis in training. This could include sheets to duck under, hula hoops to go through, and Jedi bowling (put Stormtrooper images on blocks for kids to knock over with a ball). At the end, have them write their name on a Jedi Training Certificate (found online). This could incorporate math, counting (ie. take 5 steps forward), writing skills, and more! You may want to have a few volunteers assisting this activity. (See photo C on left)

5. STAR WARS PICTURE BINGO OR CONCENTRATION/MEMORY GAME

Create bingo cards using character images or create cards to use for the game concentration/memory. This can help teach pattern recognition, memory, matching and sorting as well as social interaction.

6. ASTEROID HUNT & ROCK SORTING

Set up an area with giant pillow rock blocks and have a volunteer hide asteroids (rocks painted white, silver, gold, and brown) for kids to find. Then have a sheet set out where they can sort the asteroids by color. You can use this to promote counting and sorting skills. (See photo D on left)

7. JEDI LIBRARY READING CORNER

Set up an area with beanbags or comfortable chairs for families to sit and read fiction and nonfiction Star Wars books from your library. This encourages families to read together and promotes literacy and vocabulary. (See photo E on left)

ACTIVITIES FOR CHILDREN (AGES 4-11) - continued

8. STAR WARS BOARD GAMES

There are tons of Star Wars themed board games for sale including games such as Trouble, Operation, Monopoly, Guess Who, and many more. Just search Web sites such as Amazon for Star Wars Board Games. These are a great way to encourage social skills.

9. DESTROY THE DEATH STAR

For younger kids, tape a cut out of the Death Star against the wall and have them toss beanbags to try to hit the Death Star. For the older kids, set up a beanbag toss game with Star Wars images around the hole and place an image of the Death Star inside the hole. The goal is to try to get the beanbag inside the hole and hit the Death Star. This is great for building motor skills and interpersonal skills as well as encouraging physical activity.

10. JEDI BOWLING

If you don't choose to have this as part of your Jedi Training Obstacle Course, you can have it as a separate activity. Just set up blocks with Stormtrooper images taped to them and have kids knock them over with a ball. You could also have them count the Stormtroopers they start with, how many they knock over and how many are left. Great for motor skills as well as math and counting skills. (See photos F & G on left)

11. JEDI THEATER

Create masks to glue on popsicle sticks for kids to play with. You can find masks to print and cut out on the Star Wars Web site. Go to www.starwars.com, select "play" then "activities". Masks are located under the "print & play" section. While you are there, make sure to check out all their activities! (See photo H on left)

12. CROSSWORD PUZZLES, MAZES, WORD SCRAMBLES & MORE

While you are checking out the masks at the Star Wars Web site (see #11), make sure to also check out all the activities they have available to print and use. The 501st also has an activity book available at www.501st.com/ipropaganda.php. These teach literacy, vocabulary, and many more important skills.

13. BECOME A STAR WARS ARTIST

Also on the Star Wars Web site under "print & play" are coloring pages you can print and give out at the event. Coloring will help with motor skills and encourages creativity. (See photo I on left)

14. LIGHTSABER WALL

Encourage writing skills by having a large sheet of paper on the wall where everyone can sign their name (or the name of the character they are dressed as) with a lightsaber (a marker). Have a bunch of different colors for kids to choose from to make it more creative!

15. LIGHTSABER WARS

For more daring librarians, set up an area where kids can play with lightsabers (using swim noodles as lightsabers). This encourages cardiovascular exercise, physical activity, and motor skills.

ACTIVITY SHEET

ACTIVITIES FOR YOUNG ADULTS (AGES 12-17)

1. STORY TIME

Scan a book and project the images onto the wall so the whole group can see. This is a great activity to promote literacy, book sharing with families, and the incredible vocabulary Star Wars books have. Read a story to kick off your event or have the young adults write a story to read. (See photo A on left)

2. COSTUME PARTY

Invite the young adults to wear costumes to the event. This encourages creativity and creative play. You could even have a Costume Contest with fun Star Wars related prizes! Plus, it's fun to see all the costumes! (See photo B on left)

3. PHOTO OPS

Have a screen or paper backdrop set up where the young adults can have their picture taken with characters or cardboard stand-ups. This will build social skills and also give them a keepsake to remember the event! (See photo C on left)

4. JEDI TRAINING OBSTACLE COURSE

Set up a course for Jedis in training. This could include activities like solving math problems, writing a short story, doing jumping jacks, running in place, jumping over objects, etc. At the end, give out a Jedi Training Certificate (found online). This could incorporate math, writing skills, physical activity and more! You may want to have a few volunteers assisting this activity.

5. STAR WARS PICTURE BINGO OR CONCENTRATION/MEMORY GAME

Create bingo cards using character images or create cards to use for the game concentration/memory. This can help teach pattern recognition, memory, matching and sorting as well as social interaction.

6. 3-D STAR WARS MODELS

There are some great 3-D models to print and use at your event. Young adults will learn fine motor skills and sequential instructions while creating a work of art they can take home with them! Some require the use of a razor blade so make sure to have an adult handle the razor blade cuts or pre-cut these areas for safety. Print them on heavy paper or cardstock for best results. Find these at: toy-a-day.blogspot.com/search/label/star%20wars or www.cubecraft.com (See photo D on left)

8. STAR WARS BOARD GAMES

There are tons of Star Wars themed board games for sale including games such as Operation, Monopoly, Chess, Trivial Pursuit, and many more. Just search Web sites such as Amazon for Star Wars Board Games. These are a great way to encourage social skills.

9. STAR WARS VIDEO GAMES

Have access to a TV & video game console? There are many Star Wars related video games for sale, including a Clone Wars Lightsaber Duels game, though sites such as Amazon. Bring an age-appropriate video game for non-stop fun! Helps teach dexterity and teamwork. There are also some free Star Wars themed computer games available in the games section of the Galactic Arcade at www.hasbro.com/starwars

10. DESTROY THE DEATH STAR

Set up a beanbag toss game with Star Wars images around the hole and place an image of the Death Star inside the hole. The goal is to try to get the beanbag inside the hole and hit the Death Star. This is great for building gross motor skills and interpersonal skills as well as encouraging physical activity.

11. CROSSWORD PUZZLES, MAZES, WORD SCRAMBLES & MORE

You can find tons of activities to print and use on the Star Wars Web site. Go to www.starwars.com, select “play” then “activities”. Activities are located under the “print & play” section. The 501st also has an activity book available at www.501st.com/ipropaganda.php. These teach literacy, vocabulary, and more.

12. BECOME A STAR WARS ARTIST

Also on the Star Wars Web site under “drawing” are pages you can print and give out at the event showing young adults how to draw popular Star Wars characters. This will help with motor skills, sequential instructions and encourages creativity.

13. ROBOTICS

Partner with a local engineering company or club and have them come and demonstrate robotics to the young adults. Star Wars books help with STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Math) vocabulary and this is a great way to incorporate STEM vocabulary into your event. It also encourages problem solving and inventing skills. (See photo F on left)

14. CREATE YOUR OWN COMICS

Have a station for creating comics. Encourage young adults to develop heroes, villains, plot lines, and more! ABDO's Star Wars Teachers Guides provide guidelines for these activities and are free to download from our Web site. Also included in the teachers guides are lists of vocabulary words that can be given to parents to show how reading comic books is educational. (See photos G & H on left)

15. LIGHTSABER WARS

For more daring librarians, set up an area where young adults can play with lightsabers (using swim noodles as lightsabers). This encourages cardiovascular exercise, physical activity, and motor skills.
