THE UNITED STATES

The United States' capital has been in Washington, DC, since 1790.

The year 2026 marked a milestone for the United States. July 4, 2026, was the country's semicentennial, the 250th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The signing marked the beginning of the United States as an independent nation. The occasion is an opportunity to celebrate the nation's history, progress, and achievements. It's also a chance to reflect on the country's present and look to the future. As the United States continues to evolve, it is certain the future holds many more milestones.

The United States has been shaped by countless leaders, activists, and innovators.

AN EVOLVING NATION

The United States is one of the world's most influential countries. Over the last few centuries, the nation has become an economic powerhouse, a key player in global affairs, and a leader in technological innovation. US pop culture has also left a massive footprint, with the country's movies, music, sports, and literature inspiring people worldwide.

Though the United States prides itself on being a beacon of freedom and democracy, parts of its history are complicated. Over time, the nation expanded its ideals of freedom, putting an end to slavery, extending voting rights to more people, and banning many forms of discrimination.

Farming Encyclopedias

Choose from many options to best meet the needs of row-crop, rice, or orchard farming.

In the mid-1950s and early 1960s, IH released its number series Farmall tractors. The Farmall 1206 tractor was the first row-crop tractor to have an engine with more than 100 horsepower. Row-crop tractors sit high off the ground with the tires positioned to move between rows without damaging crops. In 1974 the company produced its five millionth tractor, a Farmall 1066 Turbo.

In 1984 Case built the Model 4904 tractor. It was the most powerful tractor the company had produced. It had a turbocharged engine.

Starting in 1955, Case sold a 400 series tractor with a diesel engine. It sold more than 2,000 of these tractors over two years.

The agriculture industry feeds the nation and provides many jobs. This series is filled with information on crops and crop farming, livestock and other farm animals, tractors and other farm equipment, and educational programs that engage the next generation of agricultural workers. This encyclopedia set is sure to give readers all they need to know about farming.

US Military Encyclopedias

"The narratives are straightforward and informative."
— School Library Journal,
Series Made Simple, April 2024

The AH-64 Apache is the US military's primary helicopter for offensive combat.

ADVANCED TECHNOLOGY

The AH-64E version of the Apache was introduced in 2011. It includes advanced communications, navigation, and sensor systems. Its radar can track multiple targets at once, and a laser targeting system helps the crew fire weapons accurately. The crew can even control a drone from the cockpit. The video feed from the drone is visible on the crew's screens. This improves the crew's awareness of events on the battlefield.

Regular maintenance and inspections ensure that aircraft are fit for missions.

In this series, readers will learn about the six US military branches, their jobs, and their special operations forces. Readers will dive into history and discover what major wars the United States has taken part in, and they will learn about the latest weapons and vehicles that the US military uses to defend the country.

GREEN TREE PYTHON

ALL ABOUT

Green tree pythons are named for their vibrant green color. They can have stripes or spots of white, yellow, green, or blue.

To hunt, green tree pythons drape themselves over a branch in a series of loops with their head hanging down, ready to strike when prey comes near.

These snakes have heat-sensing pits near their nose that help them find warm-blooded prey, even at night. Instead of using venom, green tree pythons kill their prey by squeezing it.

• Length: 4 to 7 feet (1.2 to 2.1 m)

• Weight: up to 3.5 pounds (1.6 kg)

• Lifespan: 10 to 20 years

• Conservation Status: Least Concern

HABITAT & DIET

Green tree pythons are found in the rainforest on the Cape York Peninsula in northeastern Australia. As hatchlings, they consume insects, whereas adults eat a variety of lizards, birds, and small mammals such as mice.

DID YOU KNOW?

Green tree pythons can open their jaws 180 degrees wide, allowing them to eat prey that is up to three times larger than their head.

FAMILY & SOCIAL LIFE

During mating season, a female green tree python lays a clutch of 10 to 30 eggs. She wraps herself around the eggs while they incubate for about 50 days. Once hatched, the young fend for themselves.

GONZAGA BULLDOGS

Many college basketball fans didn't know much about Gonzaga when the school entered the 1999 NCAA Tournament as a No. 10 seed. The Bulldogs had been to the tournament only once before. The school from eastern Washington was best known as the alma mater of NBA superstar point guard John Stockton.

The Bulldogs announced themselves with a thrilling run to the Elite Eight under coach Dan Monson. Monson left the program after the season. But Gonzaga continued its momentum under new coach Mark Few. The Bulldogs reached the Sweet 16 in each of the next two seasons. As Gonzaga's streak of NCAA Tournament appearances continued, the program became less of an underdog. Under Few, the Bulldogs earned a top-four seed in the NCAA Tournament four times between 2004 and 2009. But winning in the tournament proved tougher. Gonzaga didn't reach the Elite Eight until 2015.

Gonzaga forward Adam Morrison led the nation in scoring in 2005-06.

Two years later, the Bulldogs broke through and reached the national championship game with a 37-1 record. Facing blue blood North Carolina, Gonzaga led 65-43 with under two minutes to go. However, the Bulldogs didn't score again and lost 71-65.

NATIVE ELEMENTS

Native copper is known for its metallic luster. The mineral was one of the first metals used by ancient peoples.

COPPER
Copper is a soft mineral with a Mohs rating of 2.5 to 3. Its signature color is a reddish orange that changes to black or green when exposed to air. Pure copper is known as native copper. It can be found in nuggets in the ground. Copper-containing ores are often found in rocks of volcanic origin. Copper can be found near sedimentary rock layers too.

ORES OF COPPER
Most copper comes from processing the copper-containing ores chalcopryite and bornite. The United States is second only to Chile in the amount of copper it produces. Copper mines can be found in Arizona, New Mexico, Michigan, Utah, and Montana.

The first US pennies were made entirely of copper. Later, the coins were made of zinc with a copper coating.

Appearance

Like other sauropods, Brachiosaurus had a very long neck and a small head. Its front legs were longer than its back legs. As a result, its back sloped downward. Brachiosaurus means “arm reptile.”

Taller Than a House

Brachiosaurus was a massive creature that weighed up to 88 tons (80 metric tons). It was one of the tallest dinosaurs, growing almost twice as tall as a two-story house! Thanks to its long front legs and even longer neck, Brachiosaurus could reach leaves at the tops of tall trees. It likely swallowed its food whole.

Dribbling and Ballhandling

A player cannot run with the ball for more than two steps in basketball. If they want to go any farther, they must dribble.

Louisiana State University forward Angel Reese dribbles the ball during the 2023 NCAA tournament.

are allowed to switch hands, but the ball has to bounce in between each hand touching it. If a player stops dribbling, they cannot start again.

If a player takes three steps or more without dribbling, that is called "traveling." If a player travels, the ball is awarded to the other team. Players must also keep the hand they are dribbling with above the ball. If they do not, it is a "palming" violation.

FUN FACT!
James Naismith's original basketball rules said that players could only move the ball by passing it. In 1901, the rules were changed. Players were now allowed to dribble once. Unlimited dribbling was not allowed until 1909.

Weather

Certain weather conditions cause a fire to grow. High temperatures and little rain dry out fuel sources. This can cause them to ignite and burn faster. Winds can cause the fire to spread.

FUN FACT!

Wildfires usually spread fastest in the afternoon. That is when the air is hottest.

Droughts, which are times of little rain, can dry out plants. Dead, dry plants burn easily.

How a Fire Grows

Some wildfires burn out quickly. Others burn thousands of acres of land. The strength and movement of the fire depends on three factors. These are weather, fuel, and topography. They are known as the fire behavior triangle.

LIVING IN SPACE

Food in Space

Astronauts need healthful food. Scientists carefully plan their meals. Some of this food is freeze-dried. The food is put into a cold, enclosed space on Earth. The water is removed. This keeps food from spoiling. It also makes the food lightweight. Astronauts add water to eat the food.

Astronauts eat meals together on the ISS.

NASA astronauts made pizza in space in 2024.

Sense of Taste

Floating can affect astronauts' sense of taste. Liquid in the body isn't pulled downward by gravity. This gives astronauts a stuffy head. Smell and taste are weakened. As a result, astronauts often like foods with strong flavors.

DABBING DUCKS

WOOD DUCK (AIX SPONSA)

The beautiful wood duck is one of North America's most recognizable ducks. It is medium sized, larger than a crow and smaller than a goose. Its boxy head has a noticeable crest. The breeding male's color pattern is bold and brilliant. Its eyes are red, and its bill is red with a yellow patch near the base. The head and crest are shiny purplish green. The face and neck are black with white stripes. The back and tail are black, the breast is chestnut red, and the sides are buffy yellow.

WATERFOWL COLORS

Pigments, including melanins and lipochromes, produce the colors of waterfowl feathers. The colors these pigments produce include black, brown, red, yellow, green, and violet. When combined with certain feather structures, feathers can look blue or iridescent. Iridescence is when the feathers change color depending on the angle of the light hitting them.

After breeding season, males lose their bright coloration. Females and juveniles are mottled grayish brown, with their sides lighter than their backs. Their heads are gray with white rings around their eyes.

Wood ducks stay in small groups of 20 or fewer, avoiding other species. They nest in tree cavities. Nests are as much as 60 feet (18 m) above the ground.
