TINY MIGHTY STEAM LAB

Reading level: Grade 3 • Interest level: Grades K-4

This exciting craft project series guides kids through the process of making small projects while helping them develop critical thinking and problem-solving skills. Along the way, STEAM sidebars highlight the science, math, engineering, art, and technology associated with the materials, tools, and techniques. The conclusion of each book challenges readers to continue learning, creating, and exploring tiny making. This highly visual series focuses on strategies for inspiration, imagination, problem-solving, and making on a small scale.

Beanbag Toss

Make a fun, patriotic version of the popular game cornhole.

MATERIALS

- fabric (blue and red)
- ruler
- scissors
- thread
- sewing needle
- dried beans
- tagboard (blue and red)
- 2 short, wide cups
- glue

TIP: If you don't have dried beans, you can use rice, field corn, or beads.

STEPS

1. Cut eight 3-inch (7.6 cm) squares of blue fabric. Cut eight 3-inch (7.6 cm) squares of red fabric.
2. Place the right sides of two blue squares together. Sew around the edges except for 1 inch (2.5 cm).
3. Turn the fabric right side out. Fill the bag with dried beans. Sew the hole closed.
4. Repeat steps 2 and 3 to make three more blue beanbags and four red beanbags.
5. Cut two rectangles of blue tagboard that are 12 by 24 inches (30.5 by 61 cm).
6. Cut two triangles of red tagboard that are 10 inches (25.4 cm) on each side. Glue one to each blue board 1 inch (2.5 cm) from a short end.
7. Glue a short, wide cup to each board 4 inches (10.2 cm) from the end opposite the triangle.
8. Each team takes four beanbags. Take turns trying to toss the beanbags into the cups.

Darwin's Ark

Darwin's Ark is another citizen science project studying dog health. Dog owners answer questions about their pet's health, environment, and more. Owners also send in DNA. Scientists study this information. They have already made discoveries. For example, they found that

Healthy Dogs Help Research

Many dog owners walk their pets. This helps dogs stay healthy and happy. Owners can help nature while doing this. They can bring along a phone with the iNaturalist app. They can take photos of wildlife and plants. Then they can upload the photos to the app. This helps researchers track the area's health and the species that live there.

Most dogs need one or two walks a day.

certain genes make a dog more likely to get some cancers. That information helps scientists improve medical care. Care can get better for both dogs and people.

CHAPTER 3

Identifying Amphibians

At first glance, toads and frogs look similar. But they do have some differences. Toads have shorter hind legs. Their legs are better for short hops and walking. Frogs have long, powerful back legs for leaping. Their back feet are often webbed for swimming.

HOW LANGUAGE WORKS

The collection of words that a language uses is called a vocabulary. People who speak a language have individual vocabularies. These are all the words a person knows and uses. The average four-year-old native English-speaking child has a vocabulary of about 5,000 words. This increases to about 10,000 words by the time the child is eight. Most adult native English speakers

People who can understand and fluently speak two languages are bilingual. Those who use more than two languages are multilingual.

CHAPTER FOUR

REMARKABLE REPTILES

In general, reptiles are vertebrates that are ectothermic, which means they cannot control their own body temperature internally. They have to find external sources of heat to keep warm. Reptiles mostly consist of snakes, turtles, crocodilians, and lizards. Most reptiles lay eggs and have dry, scaly skin. They may live in water or on land. And some reptiles have developed unique ways of moving around.

The green basilisk is a lizard that lives in the rainforests of Central America. Males have

The green basilisk is also known as the plumed basilisk for the crests on its head.

TUNING IN

More than 19,000 fans packed the American Airlines Center in Dallas for the national title game.

Clark scored 30 points in the 2023 NCAA title game.

Another 12 million tuned in on television. Women's college basketball had been growing in popularity for years, but the sport had never seen anything like this. It was the biggest audience ever for a women's basketball game.

Like she'd done all season, Clark hit shot after shot. However, LSU responded every step of the way. Reese had a low-scoring game, with just 15 points, but her teammates picked up the slack. LSU was dominant all over the court. The Tigers hit 51 percent of their shots. They also forced 16 turnovers.

By the game's final minute, LSU had a 16-point lead and was on its way to victory. After an Iowa foul stopped play, Reese lifted her left hand and pointed to where her national championship ring would soon rest. It was a legendary finish to a legendary game. Reese received the Final Four Most Outstanding Player (MOP) Award to go with her championship jewelry. Together, she and Clark had taken the sport to new heights.

THE REMATCH

Caitlin Clark and Angel Reese returned to the tournament in 2024. This time, Iowa and LSU met in the Elite Eight. Reese had a double-double with 17 points and 20 rebounds. Clark got her revenge, though. The Iowa star scored 41 points and lifted the Hawkeyes to a 94–87 win.
